ORGANIZATIONS

Student Council 1970

At the end of each year, it is customary for the Student Council President to write an article for the Yearbook, patting himself on the back for the fine work that he's done during the year, and saying how much he's enjoyed working with everybody. To tell you the truth, I haven't enjoyed this year very much; and if anyone wants to pat me on the back, I'll let it be somebody else.

In the past, the Student Council has been used by the administration to put down dissatisfied students. "You have Student Council," administrators would say. "Work through them." The dissatisfied students would say, "Student Council is a farce. It has no power or privileges. Everything it does can be vetoed by the administrators."

Well, this year I tried to make Student Council more responsive to the real problems in the school. We finally did actually vote against the administration on the issue of free speech. When I took my anti-administration resolutions to a vice-principal, he told me, "I don't care what Student Council says. Student Council has always been a farce." When we go along with the administration, we're pointed to as the student's true voice. But when we make the school look bad, the administration doesn't want any part of us.

Leading the Student Council has always been the Student Council President, a picture of humanity, good manners, and respect for his elders. And I must admit that at the beginning of the year I was just such a person. But as the year progressed, I lost all of my patience and most of my tact. I was humble until I saw that many of the members of the Board of Education did not have the time or inclination to understand the problems that are bothering high school students. I was patient until I handed Dr. Teal request after request and waited for months for him to do something about them. I was tactful until I discovered that the Board of Education won't do anything until you sit in on their building.

There are obvious and fundamental changes needed in our school system. The people who run the schools are either too incompetent or too scared to act! The students must keep the pressure on. The students must unite!

Mr. Semans taught me that with his statement that, "Student Council is a farce," whoever agrees with him is all right, and whoever doesn't is just a minority of dissatisfied students. This is how the administration works student against student.

Well, I'm talking to all the students now, and I'll appreciate it if you'd listen. There are changes needed in our society, and our educational system must change so that it can reflect this need. If you aren't willing to work for change, then at least step aside and let others try to achieve it. We have to start listening to each other and stop holding each other back.

My vote goes to Gerry Kaufman in the State Legislature, Moe Coleman at the School Board, and to all others who are not caught up in their organization's bureaucracy so that they forget the people that their organization serves. Listen to these men. Hear what they have to say. You have nothing to lose, and possibly the future of the world to gain.

David Meyers, Student Council Pres.

Senior Class Committees

This year's Senior Class committees have worked to insure a successful senior class. Under the leadership of Class President Fred Fall, the committees planned such successful events as Homecoming, Senior Slop Day, Senior Snow Day, and Senior Cut Day (??).

Among the most successful of the committees was the class's fund raising committee. Chairman Ira Neaman, Class Treasurer, initiated such moneymaking ventures as candy sales and the Senior Fund Book. These helped to defer the high cost of the Prom.

The Prom Committee worked long and hard to plan a successful senior prom. Many phone calls were made before making the final arrangements.

The Social Committee had a fairly successful year despite an unfortunate handicap, this being a lack of support of planned affairs. Behind the scenes of all successful senior activities are two or more class committees. These are the Publicity and Hatchet Committees.

SENIOR FOREWORD REPRESENTATIVES

Yearbook Representatives

The yearbook representative is the person who comes in fourth in the homeroom election for president. His job would be easy if the homeroom would cooperate. But since this is not usually the case, he becomes the pest of the ten minute period. His dying word will be "When are you going to pay?" or maybe, "We have to buy more than a 1/16 page ad." He is scoffed at and scorned, generally disregarded and specifically hated by all but a few. Otherwise he is a good kid just trying to help.

Service Organizations

Fifth period is a service period for several T. A. students. Among these are the members of WALL and the School Store.

WALL, the sound of Alderdice, provides music to liven the atmosphere of an otherwise bleak cafeteria. Rumors spread midway through the year that several national radio stations were offering future contracts to our D.J.'s. But feeling the necessity of a little music in the cafeteria, they rejected all other offers and retained their low-paying jobs.

At the other end of the cafeteria is the School Store. The store provides the students with a convenient place to purchase their school needs. Reduced rates are the norm not the exception. Also featured at the store were such novelty items as bouncy bubbles and liquid crystals. In addition to their sales work, the girls of the School Store have been known as the information center of the school.

The Future Business Leaders of America met bi-monthly to discuss various aspects of the business world. Under the direction of Mrs. Weinberg, the all-female membership had such activities as an Awards Dinner, sales of baked goods, and Tom Wat kits. With the knowledge the girls gained this year, the business world is sure to be in for a surprise in the near future.

Stage Crew

Behind every successful auditorium program is a group of unsung heroes. This true blue group of technical stalwarts, better known as the Stage Crew, make possible all mechanical effects for assemblies. From curtains to lights, to microphones, these boys are tops in their field.

Shop Foremen

Shop Foremen are the right hand men of the various shop teachers. Indispensable as helpers, they have led many a stray young student to a successful project. Their skill and ability certainly relieve much of the pressure on the over-worked teachers.

YEARBOOK: Collage of Events

Photographs, copy, lay-out, ads, and a lot of hard work combine to make The Allderdice. The Yearbook Staff meets every day during seventh period (and sometimes into the wee hours of morning) to design the book that records and explains what happened during the school year. The spirit, the events, and the daily routines are caught and preserved through pictures. Copy tries to reflect the ideas and feelings that set each year's seniors apart from all others. Lay-out relates pictures and words to establish mood.

Outside support is necessary to maintain The Allderdice. Soliciting ads provides financial assistance. Business management keeps the records straight. Typists take care of important details in the production of the yearbook.

The Yearbook Staff is charged with creating a lasting memory of the school year 1969-1970.

Our dynamic duo—photographers Brian Yatzkan and Jon Davis (head Photographer).

Photography editor—Lyn Kirshenbaum.

Under Lyn is Cindy Hoffman.

Nancy Nelkin and Jackie Persky take care of the business end.

Lois Whitman, Paula Simon, and (filling in for Copy Editor Jeff Levinson) the Pole.

Sharen Klein, Hedy Gruenebaum (editor), and Debbie Swartz take care of the Lay-out Department.

What would we do without our typists—Edie Shapira, Darlene Harris, and Diane Maybury.

Foreword

FOREWORD TOGETHER ...

... was not the Foreword's slogan this year. It was President Nixon's. We just used it to get your attention. The word "together" took on a new meaning in 1970. When it was said that something was "together," it meant that it was well-organized or running smoothly.

Indeed, the Foreword was running smoothly in 1970. The five editors, (under the watchful eye of J. C. Thompson), Bill George, Harvey Leven, Arthur Greenwald, Rick Cantor, and Eric Kramer, each worked well with his confederates, often staying late after school to help each other meet a deadline.

Though all was well structurally speaking, many readers did not think the Foreword was all that together, judging from its outward appearance. It seems that the Foreword just ran out of money in mid-April, and was forced to come out in mimeograph form for the remainder of the year. But this didn't hinder the Foreword's performance in the annual Duquesne University Student Press Association awards (DUSPA).

And someday, dear reader, as you show this yearbook to your own children, sitting on your lap, you may well tell them a story or two about the legendary and mighty J. C. Thompson, the noble advisor of the Foreword.

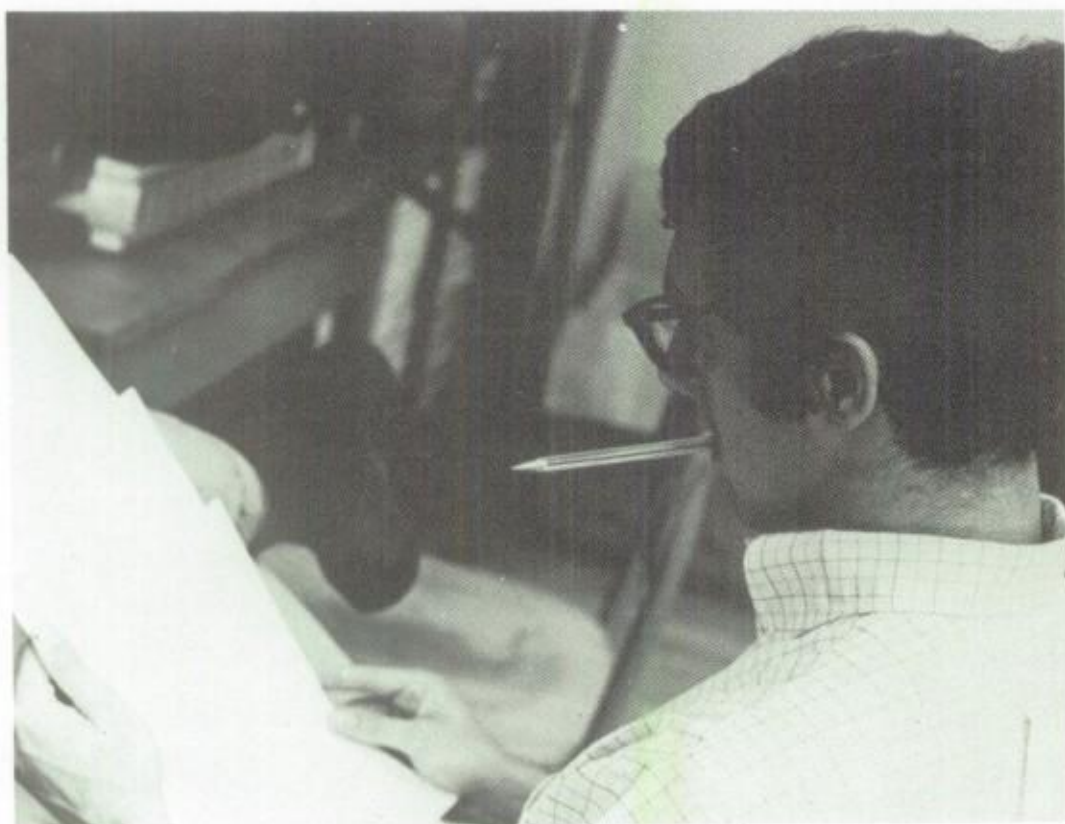

And lest we forget—1970 was the year that the Student-Parent-Teacher committee granted the Foreword freedom from administration censorship, thus entrusting the Foreword with a greater journalistic responsibility than ever before, in keeping with the student body's increased interest in Freedom of Speech.

And now let's try and get the subscription lists of the ...

FOREWORD, TOGETHER!

Library Club Assists Readers

LIBRARY STAFF: Miss Ivan, Mrs. Perego, Miss Harris.

The members of the Library Club enable the students and faculty to make better use of the T.A.H.S. library. By doing many routine clerical tasks they help the library to run more efficiently. The Library Club helped to raise money to purchase a gift for the library, an ad in the yearbook, and a Christmas party for the staff and club members by having a candy sale. There are 34 students in the Library Club, most of whom work three or more periods a week. The Library Staff is indebted to these students.

DECA

The Distributive Education Clubs of America (D.E.C.A.) is an organization established by each state for the purpose of teaching the fundamentals of merchandising and retailing.

DECA officials call state meetings at least once a year. A regional meeting was called Feb. 9, 1970 at the Holiday House, at which two Allderdice members performed outstandingly.

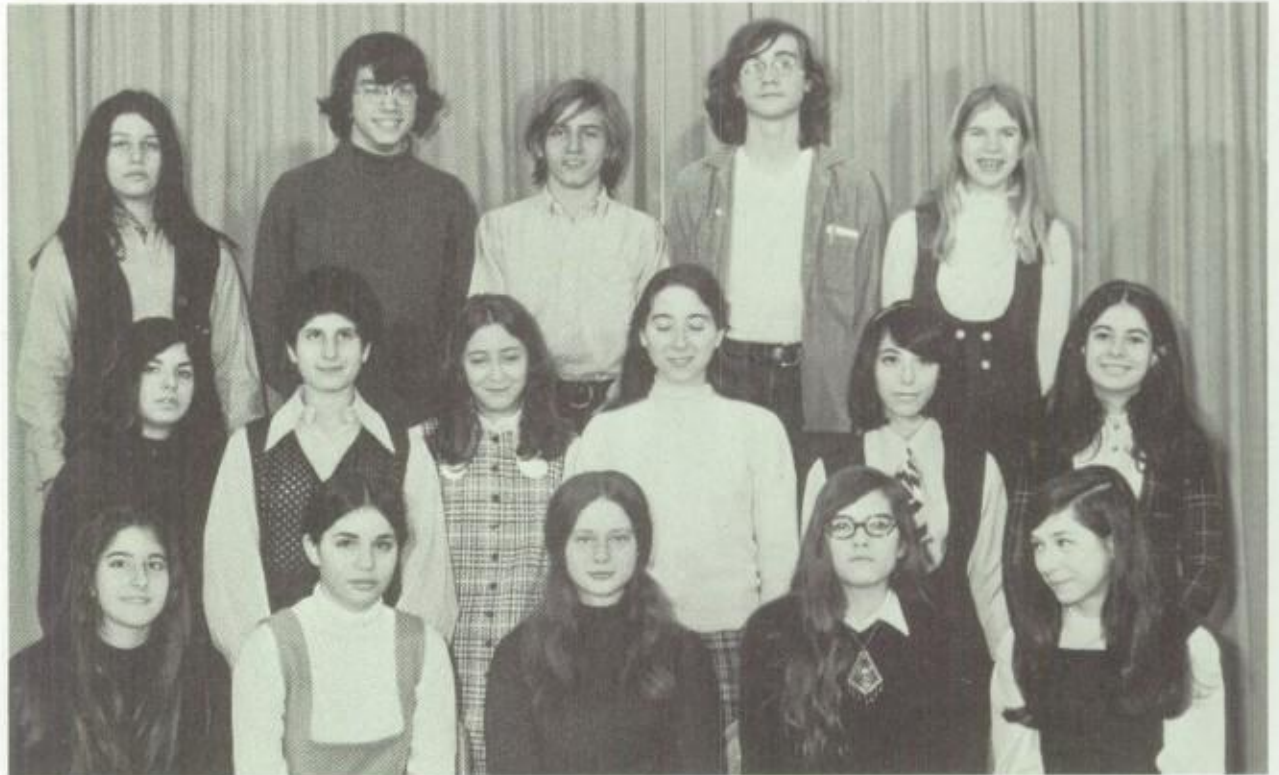

Activities of Allderdice members include such fund raising ideas as bake sales, DECA teen-pac program, etc. These activities will enable many members to attend a meeting which will be held in Harrisburg later this year.

Meetings for DECA are held once a week for the Allderdice members. They include Mr. Lockard—Sponsor, J. Ciaramella—President, B. Banderinko—V.-Pres., A. Napolitano—Sec., D. Gillette—Treas., B. Navilliat—Reporter, R. Cohen, E. Darrol, D. Gecy, L. Henzel, C. Horne, M. Kusko, E. Leventon, L. Mihalik, J. Mulvihill, F. Puzak, B. Ross, M. Ross, L. Solomon, F. Zane, Mr. Dimperio—Coordinator.

Future Actors Form Drama Clubs

The Sr. Drama Club enables its members to learn the mechanics of acting. Some of them have taken drama lessons at Carnegie Mellon, and they relay what they have learned to the rest of the club. Guest speakers come to meetings to discuss various phases of acting and drama. One of the activities in their weekly meetings involves creating skits from fairy tales. Through their informal meetings, the Sr. Drama Club Members get a taste of basic acting skills.

Damage to our environment by pollution is one of the major problems facing the world today. A group of interested students meet weekly to research and discuss the problems of pollution, paying particular attention to the Pittsburgh area. The goal of the Anhinga Society is to inform the community of existing problems and to offer some viable solutions.

Pollution control of both air and water and conservation of wildlife make up the focus of their studies. Members of the club sent letters to various companies throughout the country requesting information concerning methods of pollution control. Letters were also sent to stores selling valuable hides of animals nearing extinction.

Mrs. Litman, the sponsor, provides a valuable background in biology and helps set the guidelines for pollution research. The Anhinga Society was named for a bird common to the Florida Everglades—that almost became extinct due to effects of pollution. Members of the club contribute a small part in the fight against the destruction of our environment.

Question: Where can you be called a dummy and not feel bad?

Answer: Room 208, Wednesday at 2:15.

Why? That is where the Bridge Club meets. Its purpose is to offer bridge on the high school level. The top eight members, who compose the Bridge Team, participate in competition with other schools. Along with the Chess Team they sport one of the finest records in the school.

Foreign Language Clubs Introduce Native Cultures

Under the supervision of Mrs. Gaal, the French Club provides students with the opportunity to learn more about French culture. The club has fifty members whose activities included the performance of an original play at the Home for Crippled Children, and participation in the Buhl Planetarium Foreign Language Sky Show. During the club's spring trip to New York, the members had a chance to see French plays, dine in French restaurants, and meet the representative to the United Nations from France.

Most people think of Russia as a cold and far away country. However, it isn't as distant as they think. For students studying Russian, the Russian Club provides an opportunity to become familiar with the country and its customs. A visit by Alexander Solzenitzen, a contemporary Russian author whose books have been smuggled out of his country, highlighted one of their meetings. With their supervisor Mrs. Weinrich, other activities of the Russian Club included participating in singing and folk dancing at the Buhl Planetarium Russian Festival and listening to tape recordings of Russian operas. The Russian Club disproved that Russia is so far away; now people can just think of it as being cold.

February: Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia: quarterfinalist and semifinalist: Gary Droz, Ken Simon, and Mark Perlis. Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., October finalist.

Allerdice may not have the number one basketball team or football team, but it does have one team which ranks in the top ten nationally. This is the Allerdice Debate team. The Varsity Debate Team represented by President Mark Perlis and his teammates, Ken Simon, Gary Droz, Jerry Iwler, and Jack Twersky, won honors in a multitude of tournaments spanning nine states. Despite being handicapped by a lack of funds (other schools provide money for their debaters), the debate team traveled extensively in search of challenging competition. Not only were the Varsity debaters active, but many juniors and sophomores won honors at local tournaments. In other fields such as extemporaneous speaking and dramatic interpretation. Allerdice finally was well represented.

When words are not enough ...

The Pre-Legal Society was set up to give students interested in law a greater exposure to legal procedures. Most of the students are interested in law as a possible future profession or just as an extracurricular activity. Throughout the year the society has exposed members to men who are well versed in various areas of law. These ranged from the correctional court lawyer to the criminal lawyer. The members also participated in the mock trials at Duquesne University.

Allerdice students who wish to become teachers make up the Future Teachers of America. They meet every other Monday to hear guest speakers and learn teaching techniques. They tutored young, underprivileged children at Toner Institute and taught a class at Allerdice on F.T.A. Day. To finance their activities they sold candy, baked goods, and liquid crystals. As their sponsor, Mrs. Mussoff helped the girls understand more about the teaching profession F.T.A. provides an invaluable experience for anyone who wishes to become a good teacher.

The Science Club, under the supervision of Mr. Shore, enables interested students to become acquainted with and experienced in various aspects of science. Four general areas explored by the club were physics, chemistry, biology, and medicine. Every other week a professor or scientist connected with one of these fields or a related field of science spoke at their meetings.

Numerous field trips were scheduled throughout the year, such as touring the science facilities at Carnegie Mellon University, and visiting and working with the nuclear reactor at Penn State University. Visiting the scientific centers of Washington, D. C., concluded the year's activities. A few stops included in their itinerary were the Smithsonian Institute, NASA, and the National Geographic Society. These activities made this year one of the most successful in Science Club's history.

Computer Club Programs Year

Members compare results of programming.

The Computer Club of Allderdice dedicates itself to familiarizing students in various areas of study with programming techniques. Twenty-six members met weekly in room 467 with Miss Kunkle, their sponsor. Many lecturers spoke for the club during this school year. Membership in the club entitled the students to free use of Carnegie Mellon's I.B.M. system. The club's computer time was paid for by the Regional Computing Center under a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The 19th meeting of Allderdice Student United Nations will now come to order.

First Order of Business: S.U.N., a small scale United Nations, tries to involve students in world affairs.

Roll Call: Allderdice is one of the many schools participating in S.U.N. Its members represent delegates from various countries. Allderdice alone contains delegates from 11 countries.

NO smoking or eating permitted during the assemblies.

Study Resolutions: Resolutions created and submitted by the delegates are revised at weekly meetings. They are then presented at assemblies where S.U.N. groups discuss the resolutions.

Pro-Con Speeches: Acting for the country they represent, the delegates argue the issues presented.

Point of Interrogation: What outside activities did Allderdice S.U.N. take part in this year?

The speaker yields: Allderdice S.U.N. received and accepted an invitation to attend a four-day assembly at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C. For the first time, they were asked to an assembly at Harvard University, where they won awards for their speeches. Allderdice S.U.N. also visited New York several times during the year.

Motion to end the debate and vote on the resolution: Although only a model of the United Nations, S.U.N. members are able to experience the way in which world policy is made.

Stay out of the cafeteria after school on Mondays and Thursdays. This is where the Fencing Club meets, and you might leave with a foil through your bread basket. The club was founded by Claude Montgomery, who learned to fence in England. He now teaches 25 Allderdice students how to perform such moves as lunges and parries. Mrs. Jacob supervises the action of the club and bandages all wounded victims. The members are learning an exciting sport which is new to Allderdice this year.

Snow, ice, and cold mean fun to the Ski Club. Meeting each Friday, the Ski Club provided an opportunity for interested students to learn how to ski. It also enabled those experienced in the sport to compete with other schools. The 50 members, along with their sponsor, Mr. McKay, received reduced rates and transportation to ski resorts.

Snow Bound Clubs

Like its sister organization, the Ski Club, the Junior Hockey Club depends on snowfall for its existence. After a heavy snowfall, Hockey Club members busily trample the area of the school known as the courtyard, so as to make the terrain as smooth as possible. They then water over the snow and wait for it to freeze. After strapping on their skates, they're ready to play.

And play they do—for several hours at a time. During the 11½ month off-season, Hockey Club members keep in the spirit by calling each other "Hockey Pucks," and other foolish names.

Key Club Assists Community

The Key Club is a national high school organization dedicated to serving both school and community. Through lending a hand, providing some favor, or raising funds, Key Clubbers attempt to make life a bit more pleasant for others. The Alderdice chapter, under the guidance of Mr. Audia, has a membership of 60 members who meet once a week. Major activities within the school have included Christmas catering, pretzel sales after school, and Donkey Basketball. Outside the school the Key Club is especially active with Toner Institute, a school run by the Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh for boys aged 9-15. At least once a month members spend several hours at Toner, befriending less fortunate boys. Once a year all members are invited to attend a state-wide Key Club Convention, where Key Clubbers of Pennsylvania meet to discuss past failures and successes and future priorities.

Junior and Senior Leaders

Outstanding girls in physical education are able to develop leadership skills, or perhaps an interest in teaching through Senior and Junior Leaders Clubs. Their help enables the gym teacher to conduct her program more efficiently. Their duties consist of taking roll, checking equipment both in and out of class, supervising intramural games, and organizing the class when the teacher is delayed ... a service to the gym department. Junior and Senior Leaders are sponsored by Mrs. Pittman and Mrs. Kramer. To further their understanding of physical education and have fun while doing it, is the Leaders' purpose.

The purpose of the Allderdice Varsity Club is to raise money to award varsity jackets to deserving lettermen. To this end the club has held numerous fund raising activities. They saved many students from the red "E" in gym class with their gym suit rentals, in addition to sponsoring the faculty-varsity volleyball game. At the end of the year the club held a banquet honoring all the varsity athletes.

Dragons in Near Miss

The Allderdice footballers had an extremely frustrating season in that they were only one point short of being in the city-championship game. Team's strong performance can be explained by hard-nosed, tough play. Led by Jack Witt at quarterback, the Dragons ran easily past Schenley and Oliver. Kevin Thompson, star sophomore, led a potent running attack. The Dice's undoing came at the home game with Westinghouse. The Dragons lost the game amid continuous fighting between the schools in the stands. The rival Dice-Peabody game was a certain source of frustration. After making a big comeback in the final quarter which netted two late TD's they failed to convert what would have been the winning extra point. Final score: a dissatisfying 12-12 tie. Despite these setbacks the team played well and is to be congratulated on having a fine season.

Once again the Allderdice tankers proved to be the class of the City League. Under Coach Roth's stern hand the team put in many hours of tedious work. But the four long months of training paid a great dividend. They totally outmanned every opponent, sweeping through Section I with a perfect record. They then met Carrick for the city title. Completely overwhelming the Section II champs, they breezed to the winning title. It's an unfortunate afterthought that such a truly great team should have had such little school support.

Hoopers Make Valiant Try

Allderdice, hampered by a lack of height in the tough City League, was unable to break into the winning column this season. They played some of their finest ball in the pre-season when they lost to Thomas Jefferson by a single point. The Dice's most effective weapon was their four-man offensive weave. Unfortunately, their height disadvantage led to their being significantly out-rebounded in many of their games. Despite their disappointing win-loss record the team played well, and in the future there is no place to go but up.

Alderdice's Volleyball team was tied for first place in the city league with a three and zero record. The Spikers had beaten Perry, Oliver, and Fifth Avenue, with the score in each case 2-0.

Although the Spikers lost to Peabody, the powerhouse of the league, they produced an excellent record.

The credit for Alderdice's fine season belongs to the first team: Mike Korenoski, Phil Recht, Eric Steiner, Paul Lieber, Sam Lammie, Eliot Faigen, Steve Braun, Dave Witt, and Captain Jeff Levinson.

This spring TA's baseball team took the field with high hopes of regaining the section championship. A startling blow came to the team: hopes when a promising young pitcher was declared academically ineligible. Despite the drawback, spirits were high as the team opened the season. Behind Mike Kalson's phenomenal early season hitting, the team notched two straight victories before poor fielding proved to be the downfall in the crucial Peabody game.

The South Hills meet proved to be the team's first loss of the season. The score was 37-18, low score wins. The Peabody meet was held at Frick Park. TA defeated Peabody by a score of 23-38. Alderdice took the first, second, and fifth through tenth places.

Out of the eleven schools participating in the City Championship Meet, the Alderdice Harriers were among the top three. The other two schools were Peabody and South Hills. Alderdice had a total of 97 points. The team captured 10, 16, 22, 24, 25, 45, 49, 53, and 54 in placing.

The team put on a good exhibition this year with an impressive record of 7 wins, 1 loss, and third place in the City Varsity Meet.

Golf Team Tees Off

Although Mr. Valenti was unable to come up with a big name on the pro tour, the Dragon golfers had more than their share of success. As seems almost traditional, a TA golfer won the city championship. Jack Shea fired a two over par 69 to retain the title for Allderdice. With almost no real competition from other schools, the golfers forced themselves to compete against each other. With many returning players, next year should prove to be much more than a repeat of this year's success.

Netters Gain Title Again

Each year the names change but the results are the same. As was expected, for the fourth straight year the TA Varsity tennis team captured the city championship. Through graduation the team lost its top player and a formidable doubles tandem. Undaunted by this loss, the Dragons upped through opponent after opponent. This year's team boasted such stars as "Determined" Dave Meyers, "Practice Makes Perfect" Gary Weinstein, "Doubless" Dave Kann, and "Smooth" Bob Stern. The team was coached by Mr. Mason. The prospect for the future seems extremely bright. In fact, TA's dominance should continue for many years to come.

English: Land of Communication

Once upon a time in the kingdom of Allderdice, there lived an English Department. Mrs. Mussoff, the kind ruler of this land, wanted all her student subjects to learn by building on skills they had previously been taught. She proclaimed this method, "Sequential Learning."

The queen, her nobles and ladies, divided their department into three main parts: literature, composition, and language. In order that their subjects could have a wide range of choices open to them in these fields, they offered varied courses of study. These included a reading program for 7th and 8th graders, speech, drama, speed reading, and English composition. Advanced studies in the English land consisted of scholar's English, Project Fine Arts, and A.P. English, presented to qualified seniors only. To improve learning conditions in their department, visual aids, films, and records were called for and used by the teachers.

Mrs. Mussoff did not wish her student subjects to feel locked in a dungeon, so she provided them with activities to take them outside the realm of Allderdice. Juniors engaged in a jousting contest called the art essay. Other selected groups visited the Nixon Theatre and the Playhouse, where plays were presented. They also saw performances staged by local colleges.

The English Department, under Mrs. Mussoff's rule, won the battle of literature, composition, and language, and everyone lived happily ever after.

Language Department Brings World Closer

Welcome to our tour of the Allderdice Language Department. Our guide is Mrs. Whedbee, the head of the department. Before beginning, some background information is necessary.

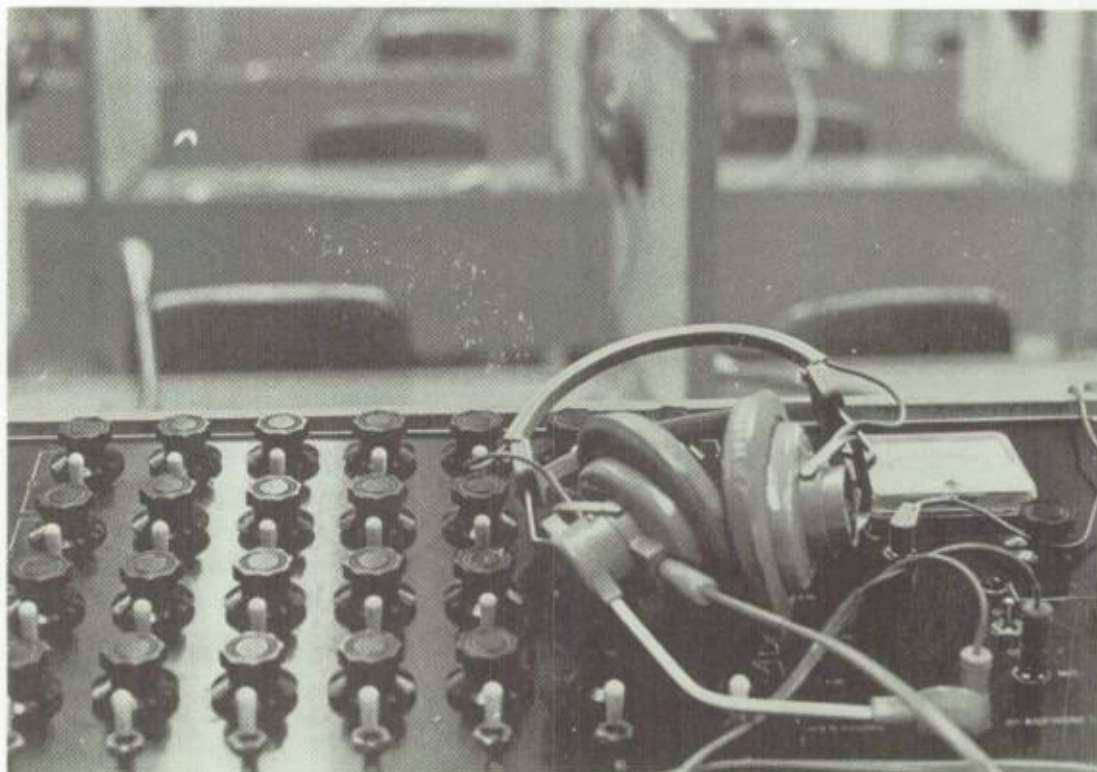

The Allderdice Language Department contains facilities for instruction in French, German, Spanish, Latin, and Russian, by the audio-lingual (ALM) method of teaching. Five year courses in German, French, and Spanish, a four-year course in Latin, and a three-year study of Russian make up the curriculum.

The tour begins . . .

Stopping first at a beginning language class, we see that the foundation for learning to speak a language involves listening and repeating. For this purpose tape recorders and dialogues are used. Students also learn about customs and landmarks of the particular country they are studying.

More advanced language groups add reading and writing to their language skills. Along with the ALM text, they work with books and materials written by native speakers of the language. Fifth year French and Spanish students participate in Advanced Placement courses, through which they may receive college credit.

Finally we visit the language lab, in use for the first time in two years. This concludes our tour, which we hope has provided some insight into the Language Department.

History Department

This year has brought change and expansion to the history department. There are two new courses offered this year. Dr. Fenton comes to TA each day to teach Humanities and Behavioral Science. Mr. Gaither this year is offering a course in Afro-American History. Also new this year is the computer used by Mr. Hirsh's Sociology classes.

With all the innovations this year in the History Department it might be easy to forget some of the other important contributions of the History Department. As usual, Advanced Placement courses are taught in American and European History. Mr. Schnupp stated that the goals of the History department were to teach students to think using social science values.

The Math Department under the direction of Miss Kunkle strives to teach mathematics that will be beneficial to all students. Courses range from general math to the more difficult Trigonometry and Calculus. Math on all levels allows students of different interests and abilities to be successful. This year the Math Department has acquired the use of a computer which further enhances student learning.

Science Department: Keeping Up With the Times

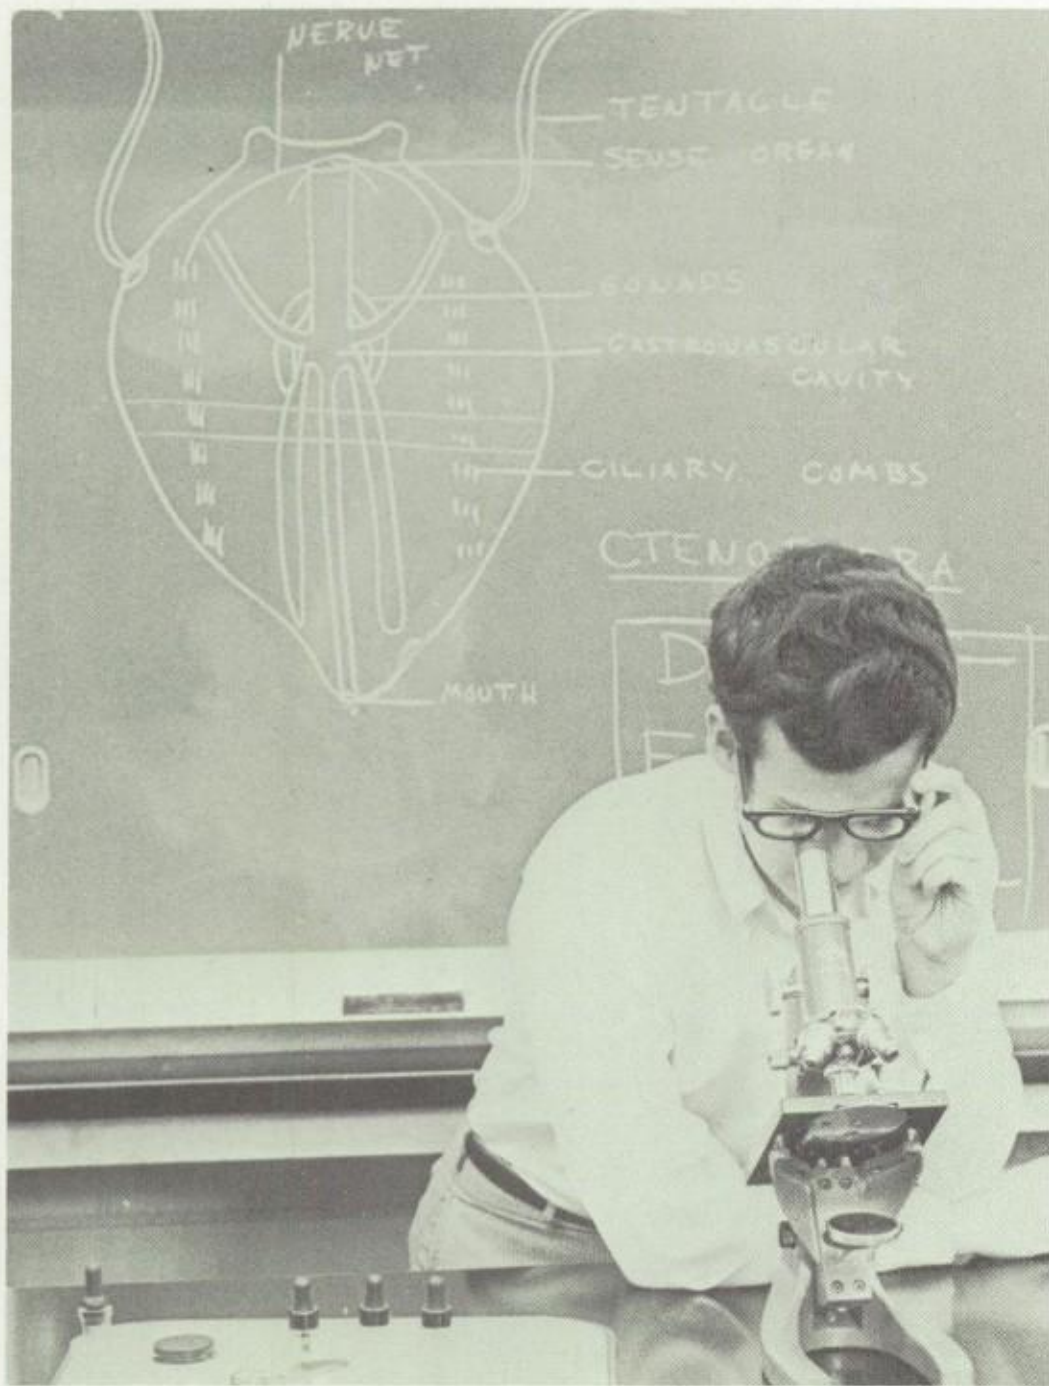

As technology becomes more and more important in today's world, it is increasingly necessary for the students to understand the principles of science. Under the able leadership of Mr. H. Claire Rankin the science department works to provide students with this understanding. After general science courses in the lower grades the department offers first year Biology, Chemistry and Physics. Thereafter Advanced Placement courses are offered in each of these fields. The science department delegates a large amount of time to experimental study. This enables the student to experience and better understand theories in science. The department also uses numerous Audio-Visual materials such as movies and opaque projectors.

Business Education Department

Even if a person is not planning a career as a secretary or a clerk, he has a use for the business department. Although its purpose is primarily vocational, an important secondary goal of the department is to offer general courses in bookkeeping, notehand, and typing. Classes are made up of both business and college bound students.

Most courses last two semesters although there are half-year courses in notehand and typing. An overview of the various business courses is available in ninth grade Exploratory Business.

New equipment is always being added to the Business Department. It now contains several of the most recent model typewriters, printing calculators, and voice writers such as the dictaphone.

Selected business classes visit Pittsburgh's Federal Reserve Bank, the U.S. Stock Corporation, and the Bell Telephone Company. U.S. Steel, which at one time did not interview Allderdice graduates, now sends applications to the Business Department requesting interviews with graduating seniors.

Whether used in the business world or in a college atmosphere, the Business Education Department provides knowledge that is both valuable and useful.

Allerdice's Art Department includes a variety of new and exciting activities. Along with the usual painting, drawing, and crafts the department offers a program in fine arts. Accompanying the visual arts are mime dance and creative music. Mrs. Jacob and the advanced fine arts classes spend one day a week learning dances from the U.S. and other countries. They study movement and the way ideas can be expressed through the use of the body. Mrs. Lewis teaches musical understanding and helps to incorporate it with the dancing. First and second year students study the more elementary kinetic and aural arts. Project Fine Arts is an innovation in the Art department. It extends what was traditionally learned to new and different aspects of art.

Shops Provide Useful Knowledge

Skill in the use of wood, metal, print, drafting, and electricity can be gained through the Industrial Art Department.

Elementary skills are taught in first year shop classes, and then students whose interests are stimulated can advance to more complicated classes. They make many useful articles such as lamps, napkin holders, paper weights, and chairs.

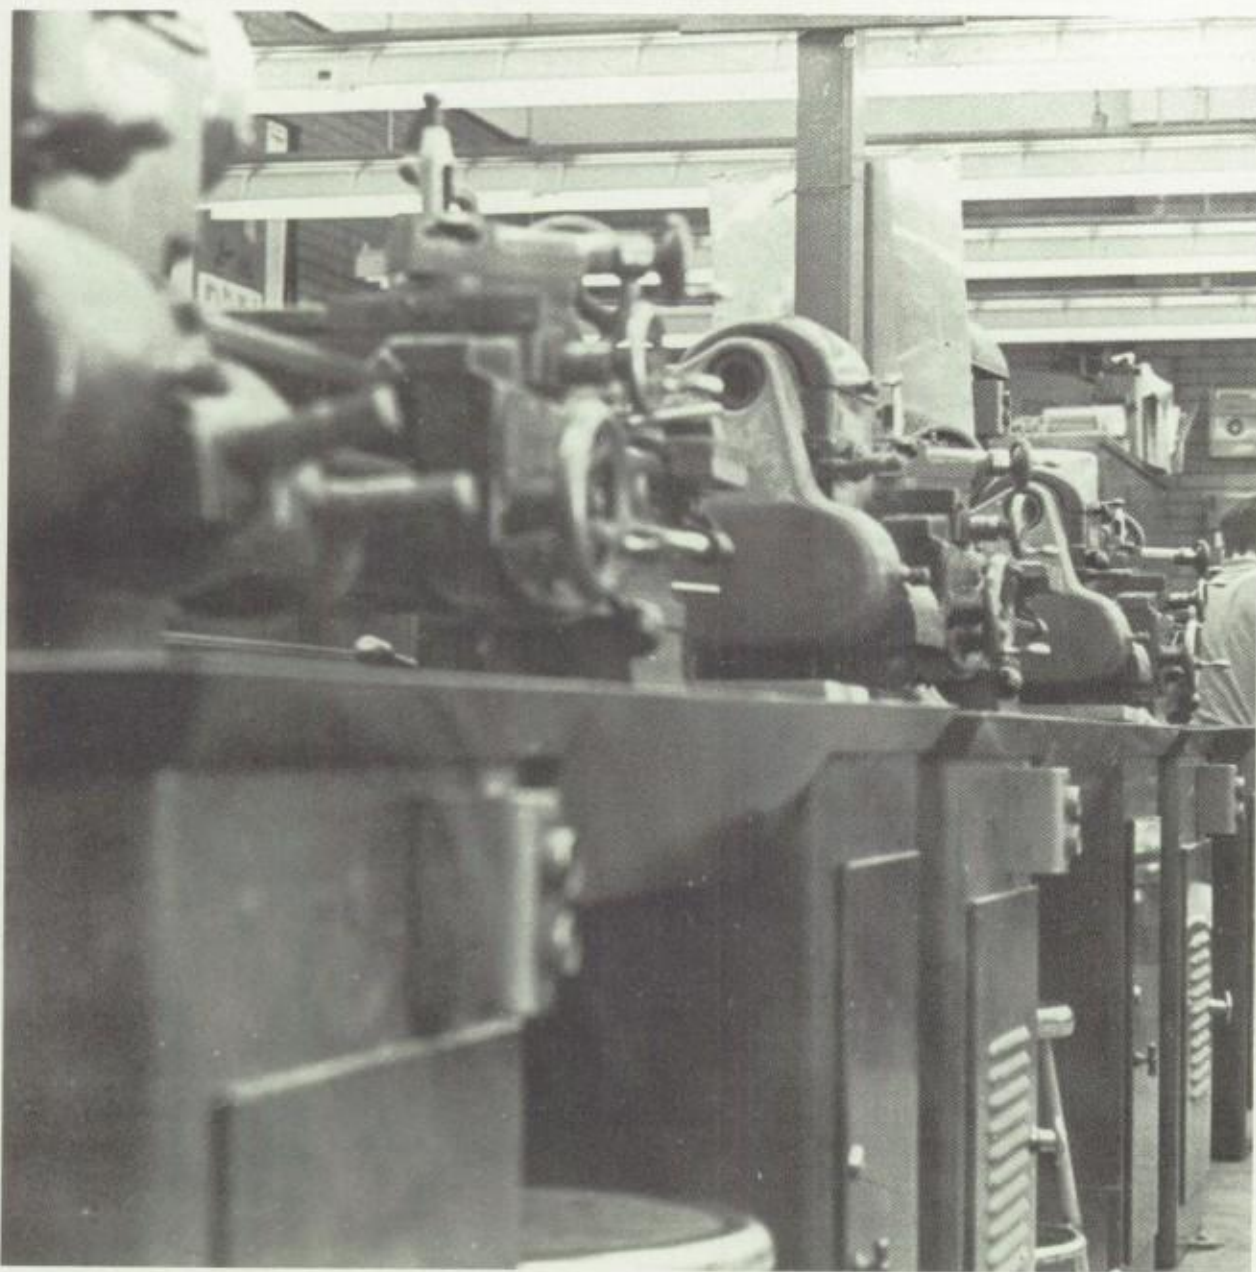

In drafting, many boys develop interests in architecture. They learn to draw, design, and plan complicated structures. Many continue their study in higher education and seek jobs in these fields.

By combining the study of basic fabrics, color, and design, a background of the clothing industry is provided. More advanced clothing classes examine table arrangement, interior decoration, and tailoring. Qualified girls are selected to participate in the Coed Fashion Show, for which they sew and model their own outfits.

Next add Foods and Nutrition. Areas of study include cooking, child development, and gracious entertainment. Gourmet and foreign cooking, as well as money management are offered to advanced students. Senior Home Economics girls are eligible for the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award. A sterling silver place setting is awarded to the Outstanding Girl in Home Economics.

Upon completion, the successful recipe yields girls knowledge of the skills involved in food preparation and clothing design.

Choir

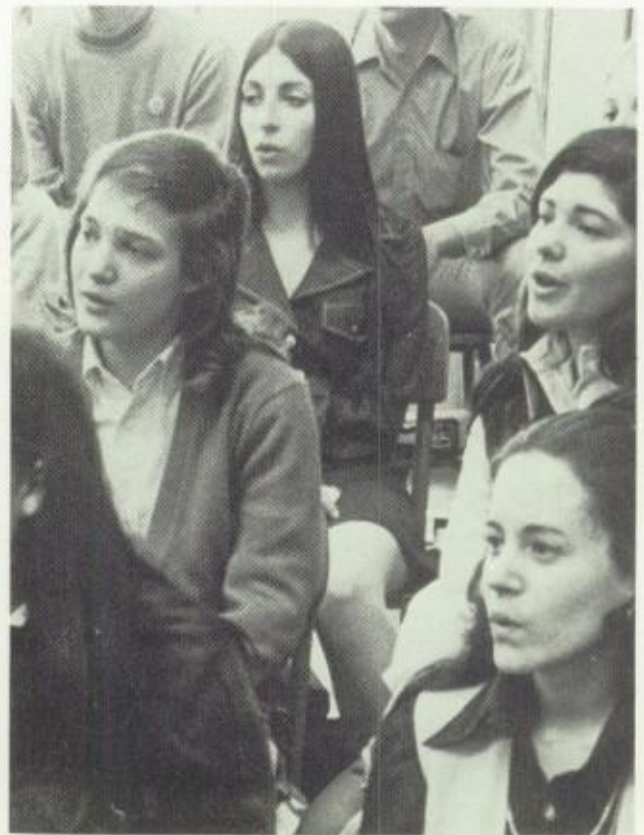

Choir practice starts early in the student's tenure at school. It begins with required music in seventh and eighth grades. From these students and those in Project Fine Arts, talented voices are chosen for the choir. In choir, students obtain a musical education, as well as learning how to sing. The "A" or performing choir is the highest level of choral experience. A highlight of this year's choir was their brilliant Christmas concert. Through this and the spring concert, the student body was able to better appreciate the fine talents of their fellow students.

Carole Peterson sings her heart out.

Orchestra

The Allderdice orchestra is one of the finest in the city. Under the direction of Mr. Bunting their concerts are always a pleasure to attend. But the orchestra did not simply sit down and play Bach. Students who choose orchestra as an elective must audition and then are placed in the proper orchestra, A through E. The finest performers are placed in "A" orchestra, which is the performing group. Many of the "A" members also play in the All-City Orchestra. So if you hear a sour note in the fourth floor main one day, don't be discouraged because it's all in a day's work for the orchestra.

Lynn Finkelhor strums away the time.

Band

Allderdice's band performed in many different areas this year. Under the direction of Mr. DiPasquale, the "A" Band had a busy schedule of performances. As usual they marched through precision drills playing at the home football games. Their musical talent also led them to Shaler and Quaker Valley High Schools for Invitational Band Concerts. The band received high tribute by being selected to perform at the arrival of the Apollo 12 astronauts to Pittsburgh.

The band's talents were not confined to music, as they successfully sold candy to raise money for new uniforms. They also held a band picnic. All things considered, the band had a truly varied and interesting year.

That's a pretty heavy flute.

Physical Education Builds a Strong Body

The Physical Education Department is dedicated to the idea that sound body builds a sound mind. Each spring the Physical Education Department presents students with the challenge of making the six-hundred club. To do this the individual must be able to run, do sit-ups and push-ups, throw a softball, and perform other athletic skills with a high degree of quality.

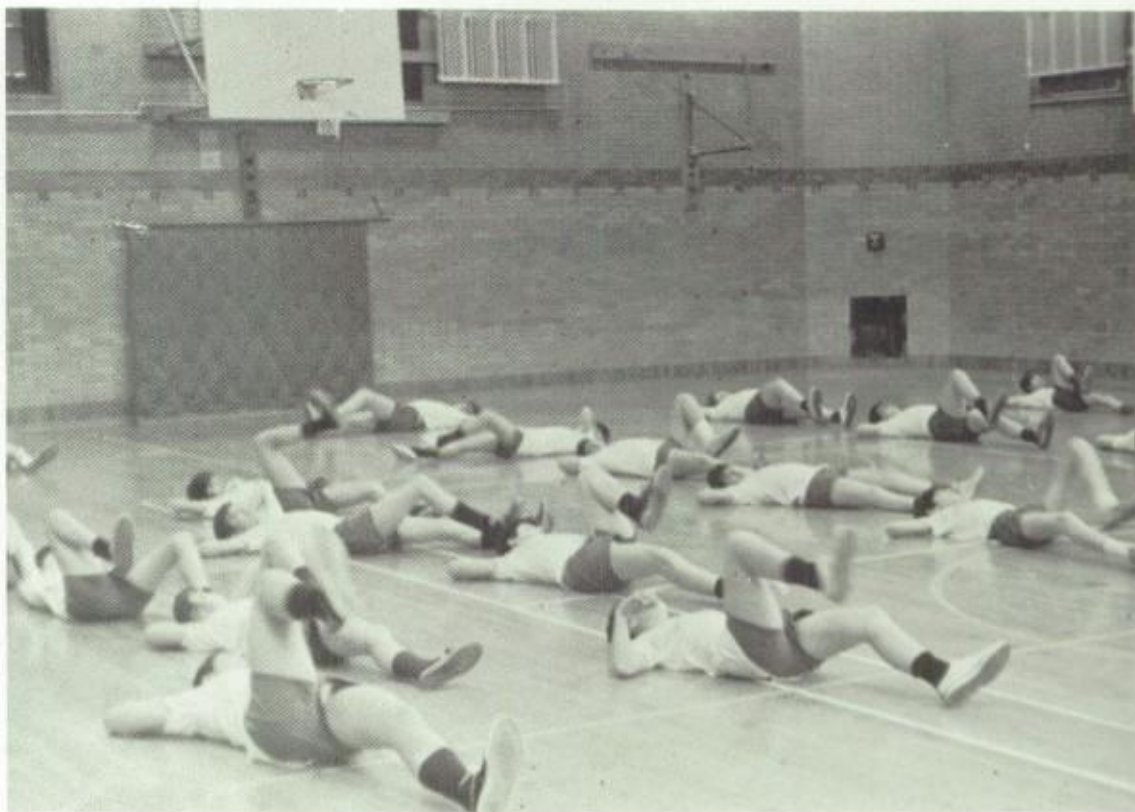

The coaches also help to promote physical education through intramural as well as varsity sports. This intramural program includes swimming, soccer, basketball and softball. A single elimination determines the winner in each sport by grade. A testimony to the fine job of the Physical Education Department has been the excellent showing of several varsity teams in the tough City League. Among these were the near-miss Football Team, Section Champion Soccer Team, and certainly the City Champion Swimming and Golf Teams.

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT: First Row: Mrs. DeLuca, Mrs. Kramer, Mrs. Pittman; Second Row: Mrs. Goldblum, Mrs. McDowell.

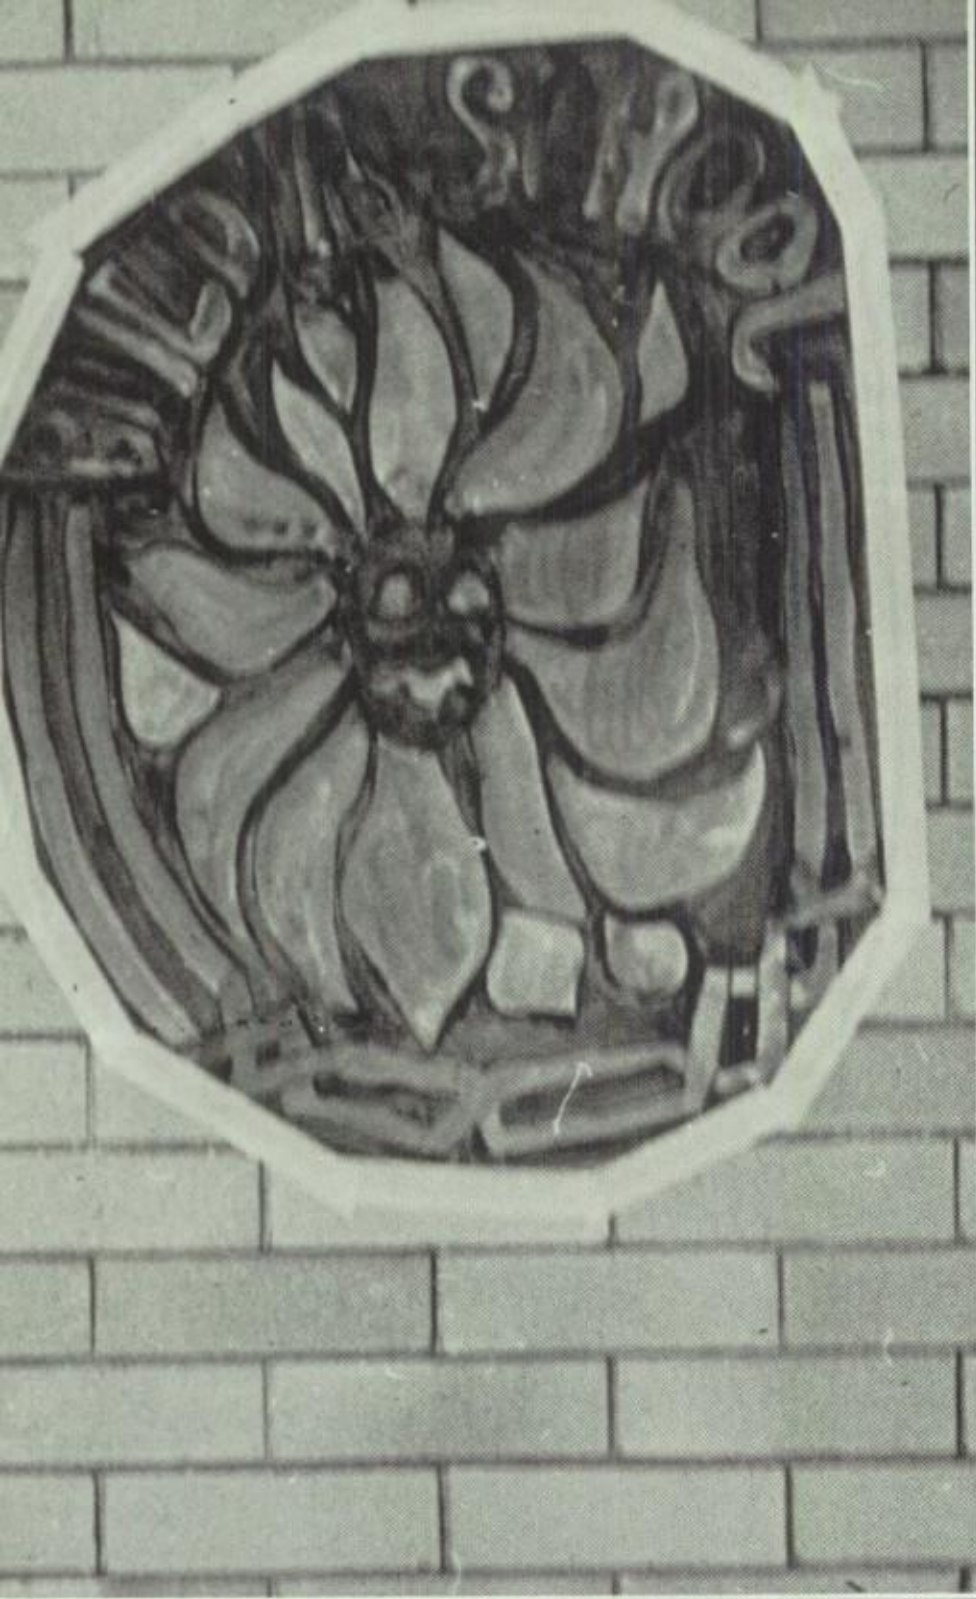

"Hit the ball! Don't be afraid! It won't hurt you!" This is a famous phrase in girls' gym classes. Some girls just never will learn to be experts at sports, but the Gym Department tries to show them how you can have fun during games. They teach such things as basketball, volleyball, and speedball. Then there are always stunts to keep their muscles in shape.

Hygiene and swimming are also part of gym. In hygiene this year everyone learned about Civil Defense and First Aid. Swimming, as always, was devoted to earning Red Cross Cards.

Gym provides a way for girls to become acquainted with sports while getting rid of some of those extra pounds. Interested students may participate in after-school activities such as Senior Leaders and intramural games. The Physical Education Department is geared to making Allderdice girls physically fit.

Why does the fire drill always ring during gym class?
